

Why We Need the Our Neighborhood Voices Initiative

Sacramento Politicians are Taking Away Our Ability to Speak Out When Developers are Damaging and Gentrifying our Neighborhoods.

A series of recently passed laws allow developers to build multi-story, multi-unit buildings right next door to single-family homes, destroying communities and denying our ability to fight back. We are a coalition of thousands of California neighborhood leaders fighting to preserve our ability to speak out about what happens in our own neighborhoods.

New State Laws Don't Create Affordable Housing, but Massive Profits for Developers.

The politicians say they took away our neighborhood voice because we need to lower the cost of housing. But their "answers" have ZERO requirements to build new affordable housing. The developers will make billions and the facts show that recent state laws will create massive displacement — forcing working families out of their own communities.

The Developers Make Billions — We Pay the Bill.

Recent laws passed by Sacramento do not require developers to contribute one new cent to roads, transit, schools, parks, police and fire protection, new water sources or any other service. They profit — we pay!

California Can Build Housing Without Bulldozing Neighborhoods and Creating More Gridlock

There are solutions — but the politicians gave their developer donors the ability to build market-rate, multi-story projects in every neighborhood and took away our ability to speak out about projects that are being built literally right next door to us.

The politicians and developers have had their say.

Now it is our turn! We are working to give every California voter the chance to speak out about what is happening in their own neighborhoods. Our measure takes away the blank check to developers and restores a process that allows neighborhoods to be heard.
